WHEELING, NOVEMBER 20, 1894.

What a Fall!

President Cleveland and Mr. Wilson, both in a state of mind bordering on high dudgeon, declared that the Gormanized Wilson bill was only the first step—the party of tariff reform would not be content with what had been accomplished, but would push on to bolder achievements. Now the President is believed to have determined to let tariff reform take care of itself; and Mr. Wilson is quoted as saying that this Congress will not engage in any more tariff legislation.

The President and Mr. Wilson, both in a battered condition, represent about all that is left of tariff reform. If they are going to put in their few remaining moments on finance, or any other hobby than tariff reform, it must be because they have changed their great minds in respect of the expediency of pushing further on the line of the British customs policy. This would be a sad ending.

If free trade was the right thing when they took hold to give the country its fill of it, it is still the right thing in spite of the fact that the free trade phalanx will be very small in the next Congress. A thing so superlatively good and true and beautiful as free trade surely cannot be said to be disfigured or robbed of any of its sublime attributes by anything so commonplace as staggering pluralities. Isn't truth eternal? and mustn't it prevail?

To desire that the Democratic party may prevail at the next election over truth at any and all times, is to fall off the high pedestal of theoretical statesmanship into the polluted pool of everyday politics. Professional reformers such as the President and Mr. Wilson are should be careful how they touch anything that is of the earth, earthy.

Last year Pennsylvania expended $18,500,000 on her public schools, a great record for a great commonwealth.

Peace Between China and Japan.

The question of peace between China and Japan is being discussed as though it were the business of some other nation or nations to step in and bring it about. The idea seems to be that China must be saved from further drubbing and further humiliation, and that peace must be brought about before the Japanese have a chance to push their victory far enough to dismember the Chinese empire.

All wars are horrible, but Japan is prosecuting her war against China as decently as any of the western powers would wage war against any enemy. It is an old feud that is being fought out, and who is to say when China has had enough?

Furthermore it is by no means certain that it is best for the people of China that the huge bulk known as the Chinese empire shall remain intact. If the empire were cut up and part of it brought under Japanese influence the condition of the common people could not be worse and might be very much better.

At all events since the Japanese have shown that they represent a power of the first rank they have earned the right to be treated as any western power of that class would be treated. If they are not yet ready to listen to overtures in behalf of China it would be an impertinence for any power or combination of powers to interfere. It is not a case of a big nation overpowering a little one. It is a case of one man putting ten to fight, and that one has his own object to attain.

After all the pomp and ceremony the dead czar goes back to mother earth like any other mortal. "Vanity of vanities, all is vanity."

Murder at Long Range.

A queer story of murder at long range comes from Rome. Mario Procci, a painter of note, describes with minuteness of detail how he obtained hypnotic control over his betrothed and in a moment of jealous frenzy compelled her to drown herself.

The young woman was bathing with two of her rivals and other companions. Procci cast a glance at her from the shore, wished for her death by drowning, who disappeared beneath the waves and was dead before she could be rescued. This story he tells to the chief of police.

The young woman's death by drowning is vouchered for. Is Mario Procci guilty of murder? He says he is. If will find it hard to induce the law to agree with him. Instead of forfeiting his life he is more likely to be locked up in a lunatic asylum.

The New Legislature.

A complete and accurate list of Republicans elected to the West Virginia legislature appears in another column. All told the faithful number 64, with a comforting majority of 31 on joint ballot.

This is 5 more than the Democrats had on joint ballot, although they twisted the state out of shape to make sure of holding the legislature by a big majority beyond the possibility of capture by the other side. Their scheme worked well enough so long as things went well with their party, but when the evil days came upon them and the people got a good ready on their best laid plans were without ceremony knocked into a cocked hat.

The Republican majority in the senate is small, but it is large enough for good work if the men who compose it stand together, and there is every reason to suppose that they will. The house majority of 29 is large enough for all practical purposes.

The people expect good things of the coming legislature, and so far as its members have expressed themselves the intention is to give the people no reason to complain. That is the way to hold West Virginia in the protection column.

The Turk in Europe is a misfit. One of these days Europe will make him walk Spanish.

Was Somebody on the Inside?

As in the case of the previous $50,000,000 loan made by this administration so now there are scandalous rumors of information given to favorites in advance of the official announcement. It was worth money to know of the intention to issue bonds before the news became common property.

President Cleveland's yachting friend Benedict is supposed to have had this admission behind the scenes. Mr. Benedict is in the thick of Wall street, and if anybody knows now to turn to good account useful information Mr. Benedict knows. A little tip would have been quite enough for a man of his keenness of perception.

If there was no shameful scandal connected with the bond matter it is scandalous and shameful to put in circulation such a story as seems to be credited to New York.

From far South Dakota comes a story of a scheme to commit the Republican party to the free and unlimited coinage of silver. If that party refuses to go that way it is to be destroyed. Senators Jones, Stewart and Pettigrew are said to be engineering the movement. Since Senators Jones and Stewart have left the Republican party it is not clear how they can commit it to anything.

GOVERNOR HASTINGS announces his cabinet and relieves the severe nervous tension under which aspiring statesmen have been laboring. A man always feels a certain sort of relief when he finds he isn't going to get something he has set his heart on.

THERE are some strong men on the Republican side of the legislature, and there is promise of a session that will be profitable to the people. The first step is to organize with the strongest men at the front.

The new loan will be taken because the people have faith in the government, not because they have confidence in the wisdom of this administration.

It isn't too much trouble with the Register kindly give its latest wool quotations? Many good people are interested in this subject.

GOVERNOR WAITE, of Colorado, will lecture. If he will exhibit his "bloody bridges" the public will ask no more of him.

FITZSIMMONS' punch will never become popular. It is as fatal as the deadly cigarette.

In two weeks the free trade lodge of sorrow will be opened in Washington.

This winter will be colder than last for the free trade boomers.

The Senatorship.

Martinsburg Herald.

Now that the battle is fought and the victory is won, "our friends, the enemy," are busily engaged in the laborious task of electing the man who is to succeed Johnson N. Camden in the United States senate. Had they won, there would have been a monkey and a parrot time; but the good sense of the voters decreed otherwise and that pleasant task is relegated to other hands.

As to who should be elected there can be no question. It was settled months ago, not only in this congressional district, but throughout the state. Every voter knew that Hon. S. B. Elkins was the only logical candidate. When the Herald demanded his nomination against Mr. Wilson we were not from every section of the state with the argument that that could not be, as he was needed to make the fight for control of the legislature. Having been successful beyond our highest anticipations, any opposition to Mr. Elkins by other than Democrats is in bad form and should not be countenanced.

A Lesson for All,

Wellburg Herald.

The big demonstration at Wheeling last Saturday evening in honor of the redemption of West Virginia was a notable one in point of size and enthusiasm and also as regards another quality which seems to be common to all similar occasions this year, namely, a freedom from all offensive vituperation over those who went down in defeat. The same thing was noticeable here on the occasion of the demonstration last week. There seems to be present an era of good feeling and everywhere Democrats are joining with the Republicans in celebration of a victory so stupendous that it, or at least the size of it, can be accounted for in no other way than that it was brought about largely by Democratic votes and Democratic stay-at-homes, so that they really have good cause for joining with the Republicans in celebrating the victory. Another softening influence is the fact that the personality of the candidates had so much less to do with it issues this time than is usually the case, and the people recognize that the policy of the victorious party is a safe one. The Republican policy for thirty years gave the people from moderate to high prosperity, while the two years during which the Democratic policy has had a chance to govern, affairs have seen the whole country plunged into the deepest distress, and it is not strange that the people, looking back beyond the two years of Democracy to what had been, even though they had not been satisfied with conditions then, and contrasting them with the conditions of the last two years, made haste to put back in power the party with the best record, the party which had shown ability in the past and whose principles had never changed. The result of the election was really a victory for the Republicans and the better class of thinking Democrats.

THE NEXT PRESIDENT.

Morally Certain That He Will Be a Republican—The Duty of the Party.
 New York Press.

The overwhelming Republican success in the late elections has made it practically certain that a Republican will be elected President in 1896. The great north and west have returned to their allegiance to the party of Seward and Lincoln, of Grant and Blaine. The flag of Republicanism, of equal rights and of protection to American industry waves to-day over the most imposing array of commonwealths ever marshaled in the ranks of any political party. Not only has the north been wrested from Democracy and the west redeemed from Populism; the southern border states have revolted from the party of free trade by a vote whose significance it is impossible to mistake.

Missouri, West Virginia and Delaware, which gave Grover Cleveland twenty-six electoral votes in 1892, are Republican. Tennessee, Kentucky and North Carolina have shown that they can no longer be counted as Democratic states. California, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, New Jersey and New York, which swelled the Cleveland columns two years ago by 104 electoral votes, have pronounced for Republicanism by majorities which indicate that the voters of these states propose to remain permanently in the Republican party. The American people have risen in an unparalleled revolution against the meadacity, the treachery and the calamity of Clevelandism. They have asserted the rights of their citizenship with a vigor which has paralyzed the scheming politicians who have plotted to dishonor the American flag abroad and crush American industries at home. They have revived Republicanism in all its original might, and have demonstrated conclusively that in the future Republican principles and policies will guide the American government.

Under these circumstances the next Republican nomination for the presidency will in all human probability be equivalent to an election to the highest office in the gift of the American people. The real election will take place in the convention intrusted with the responsible and honorable task of choosing the Republican standard bearer. The statesman named will begin his campaign with the full assurance of victory. The party of which he is the choice will move forward with unshaken confidence and invincible force, drive the disorganized Democracy from its intrenchments, re-establish Republican rule, restore adequate protection to American industries and revive national prosperity. Political conditions are such that the developments of the next twenty months must possess unusual interest for all intelligent Americans. The events which will occur between the present date and the meeting of the next Republican national convention will almost infallibly indicate who is to be the next President of the United States; and those events will be recorded with promptness, fullness and impartial fairness in the columns of the Press.

The chapter of American history that will be written in the two years immediately before us will be one of the most inspiring in the annals of this republic. It is the duty of Republican voters in every state in the union to avoid all factional divisions, to labor unwearingly in strengthening party lines and to spare no effort in promulgating those imperishable principles which the people gloriously vindicated on November 6. The border states which have been torn from the Democratic column must be retained. The vantage ground won by hard and tireless fighting must be fortified and extended. Republicanism must not only win in 1896; it must sweep the nation with a power which will forever shatter the traditions of the solid south and begin a new era of American prosperity and progress by assuming permanent Republican domination at Washington.

FROM FAR OREGON

Come Congratulations for the West Virginia Victory.

Among the many letters received by State Republican Chairman Dawson since the late election, is the following: HEADQUARTERS REPUBLICAN STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE, PORTLAND, ORE., NOV. 7, 1894.

Wm. M. O. Dawson, Chairman Republican State Committee, Kingwood, W. Va.

DEAR SIR:—I want to congratulate you upon your grand victory. It seems hardly possible that four Republican congressmen are elected in West Virginia; but the telegrams received here intimate that fact, with a majority of the legislature, thereby securing a United States Senator, whom I hope will be Elkins. Of all the grand victories in the different states there is none that does me personally more good than yours. I was very anxious for Wilson's defeat. The result is far reaching. The overwhelming victory, I believe, will go a long way towards restoring confidence throughout the country at once; and certainly as soon as there is opportunity for legislation, better times will dawn upon us and prosperity be speedily restored.

Yours very truly,
 G. A. STEELE,
 Chairman.

ALUMINUM SHOE NAILS.

German Soldiers Will Be Relieved of All Unnecessary Weight.

The German emperor is taking every possible means to secure the mobility of his troops. By the introduction, a few months ago, of aluminum in the manufacture of some of the equipments, the weight carried by the German soldier was greatly reduced, and now his boots are nailed and heeled with that metal. As aluminum is now much more easily worked, and the Cowles process of producing it has made it considerably less expensive than formerly, its gradual reduction into our soldiers' accoutrements is only a matter of time. Aluminum possesses several advantages over steel. It does not rust so quickly; its durability is equal to that of other metals, and its weight being about half that of steel its substitution for many of the heavy steel cavalry and infantry accoutrements would greatly relieve horses and men. In the French army the metal is used for a number of the equipments of the transport corps, and the regimental eagles are also made of it. The results expected from heeling and nailing the German soldier's boots with aluminum are better and quicker marching, and the arrival of troops at the point of concentration in a less fatigued condition.

Made a Good Impression.

Pittsburgh Times.

Congressman-elect A. G. Dayton, the man who defeated William L. Wilson, received a most hearty welcome in Pittsburgh Saturday. After the meeting and parade that evening he was the guest of the Young Men's Republican Club at the club house on Sixth street, where he was greeted by many of the leading Republican workers of Allegheny county. Mr. Dayton made a most pleasant and favorable impression upon all who met him.

The Baby's Need of Sleep.

Babies require sixteen or eighteen hours' sleep out of the twenty-four; children about twelve, and young people eight. As age increases the number of hours decreases, and after the age of sixty, five or six hours' sound sleep suffice to maintain health.

What a Minister Says.

Trinity Station, Morgan Co., Ala.
 Dr. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir—In the fall of last year I suffered from rheumatism in my left shoulder and elbow. I tried a great many remedies, recommended to me by friends, but they all failed to afford relief.

From the time I began Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, until I felt that I was cured, was a period covering four or five months. While the attack lasted, I suffered a great deal, and could not dress or undress without pain. I had a great deal of money previously, in various kinds of medicine, but the "Discovery" from the day I commenced until I was well, cost only FOUR DOLLARS.

My gratitude, and I beg to subscribe myself,
 Your friend,
 REV. WILSON WILLIAMS.

THE INTELLIGENCER

IS A CLEAR AND PRESENTABLE PAPER

PROSTRATED!

A Most Dreaded and Awful Danger.

What Makes so Many People Drop Dead in the Street?

Why Are Homes Filled with the Weak and Nervous?

Weak Nerves, Weak Heart and Exhausted Brain!

These Are the Causes and They Must be Overcome.

It is weakness, a sin, a crime to neglect your health. Death has terror for everyone, but people do not seem to think much about it until they are about to break down. Then anguish fills the soul. Then despair replaces ambition, and weakness and exhaustion take the place of strength.

Have you palpitation, dizziness, and feeling of weakness and uneasiness around the heart, dizziness, faintness and shortness of breath? Then look to your heart! It is dangerously weak! Sometimes there is pain around the heart. With these symptoms there is generally loss of appetite, gas, weakness, anxiety, forebodings, despondency, and extreme nervousness. Such a condition is equal to a deadly serpent coiled about you, whose venomous fangs are about to sink into your flesh and draw your life's blood.

Read the remarkable experience of Joseph Booth, Esq., the widely-known superintendent of Torrey's Razor Manufactory, Worcester, Mass.: "Some time ago," he says, "I was taken with a terrible dizziness and palpitation of the heart, which so weakened me I could not stand. A terrible burning sensation would be felt over the heart and at the same time it would palpitate in a dangerous way."

"I had an all-gone feeling, was terribly weak and despondent, and a horrible foreboding was continually over me. My food distressed me terribly and I had severe pains. I was so weak and sick I thought I should die. I was also troubled greatly with gas."

"After trying several remedies for my sufferings without success, I was convinced that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy was the only medicine that would cure me. I saw that many had been cured of the same complaint by it. I commenced using it, and the result justifies my confidence."

"My troubles have all left me after using this great remedy. My heart disease is cured, and I can eat anything without distress. Dizziness no longer troubles me, and I am cheerful and bright, with no fits of despondency. In fact I am a new man. I advise everyone to use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is a wonderful medicine."

Everybody is unanimous in proclaiming this great remedy the most wonderful in the world. Why don't you try it? That weak organ will soon give out. Do you want it? Then take the one sure cure for it. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

It is not a patent medicine, but the prescription of the most successful living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 West Fourteenth street, New York City. He has the largest practice in the world, and this grand medical discovery is the result of his vast experience. The great reputation of Dr. Greene is a guarantee that his medicine will cure, and the fact that he can be consulted by anyone at any time, free of charge, personally or by letter, gives absolute assurance of the beneficial action of this wonderful medicine.
